

Max's Talk: Transcribed

Samples

- In the Magic Tree House..um...when the ninjas were climbing up the tree, I and sometimes..I do that and um—I have a big tree house where I live...um. My friend has a tree house and it has doors in it, and there's a slide inside a sliding door...
- Ninja's are all black, only for their eyes...I have read all the magic tree house books and now there's a new one at my house.
- Here are the bits of the game. Here's Jack, except it was supposed to be Annie. I wrote Jack on Annie's....
- Journal Reading: I like Winter of the Ice Wizard, as I thought that the monster is very cunning but it wasn't. And is a fantasy...I did a game and how you play is you have cards and they have five different categories like magic and stuff...However, whoever has the biggest number wins the cards. If someone has the same number, they use the next card and use the same category.

William: Unique Roles

Negotiating & Renegotiating

Initially monosyllables
Cautious reader & writer
Keen observations:
commented on peers

Saw Andrew as leader
Preferred to be in real world
Increased participation with
Harry Potter

Sharp memory (spells, magic)
Immature behavior
Exuberant

William's Talk: Transcribed Samples

- They met, wait, they met the ninja master, they met the ninja master in a cave that is hid in a mountain. That's how I wrote it.
- Crucio, the spell Crucio wait.
- And torture. It's like what people use to torture people. The first Harry and his friends learn it in the fourth book.
- Yeah, but they both die, but then Harry comes back to life. I've not gotten there. But I just know (smiles).
- Here, I'll just tell you a couple more. Wingardium Leviosa, it's a spell used to lift an object.
- My, this is the rating, but this is Andrew's page. Max is the next.
- I liked the dragon book the best.